

January 3, 2022: Nice way to start the year!

Two orders for SRP's D&H DVDs in the past couple of days, which is very gratifying: one from Mathew Naylor in Philadelphia for Volume XI (The Jefferson Branch of the Erie Railroad) and one for Volume XV (Locomotives and Roundhouses). Both orders will be mailed first class tomorrow morning from the Carbondale Post Office.

It would be very interesting to know just how these two orders happened: the buyers were looking around the CHS&M webpage, they found them via Internet Archive, someone told them about my D&H series. Whatever the case, I am very pleased.

I can't help but wonder if Ken Atkinson is "open again" for business. I have a need for more copies of many of my D&H DVDs. I contacted him once last year, and he reported that he not yet ready "to go back to work". I don't want to be a pest, so I guess I'll wait and see what happens. If he is again "open" I think he will let me know.

Addendum IV has been officially published (334 pages), and a copy has been uploaded to Internet Archive, which means that Addendum IV is "out there and available"—which is what matters the most. I gave a copy on a disc to Mike Bischak (one of his photos is on the front cover) and I produced archive copies on discs for my records (two copies at the Historical Society in my "master file" of hard copies of my D&H volumes in Room 303 (in a post office aluminum mailing box). Electronic copies of Addendum IV are also on both of my external hard drives.

Addendum V has been opened and I have already made a couple of additions to it. Similarly, my 2022 Journal has also been opened and there have been several entries there, as well.
